MTBC Provides Ophthalmologists a Prescription for a Clearer Future

(Somerset, NJ) November 09, 2012 – MTBC, a leading EHR and practice and revenue cycle management company, today announced that it will be at the 2012 Joint Meeting of American Academy Ophthalmology (AAO) in Chicago, on Saturday, November 10, through November 13, 2012. In addition to promoting its unique ophthalmology solutions, MTBC will be offering free Chicago skyline tours on its private jet to members of the American Academy Ophthalmology.

“We are thrilled to be part of the AAO 2012 Chicago meeting,” said MTBC’s Vice President of Sales, Loraine Goetsch. She further said, “My colleagues and I will be there to show providers our complete solution, including our ophthalmology rule based engine, Superscripts certified e-prescribing, customizable SMS updates alerts, automated appointment reminder calls, real-time eligibility verification, and our industry leading first time pass rate.”

MTBC’s President, Stephen Snyder, echoed Ms. Goetsch’s enthusiasm, and added, “We’re pleased to have another opportunity to discuss our unique, fully integrated ophthalmology solution with the country’s leading ophthalmologists.” He further explained, “Our proprietary software and rules based engine, augmented by our coding and ophthalmology billing experts, allow us to provide unparalleled results to our ophthalmology clients.”

“Our technology-driven solutions and resources help providers reduce administrative expenses, increase practice revenues and enhance workflows,” explained David Rosenblum, Vice Chairman of MTBC’s Board of Directors. Mr. Rosenblum further explained, “We encourage attendees to visit our team and learn more about us at booth 363.”

As an added bonus for attendees, MTBC is offering free tours of Chicago on its private jet. Limited seats are available.
